Passage of the Presidential Canvass Bill by

CIVIL RIGHTS NEXT IN ORDER

the Senate.

WASHINGTON, Peb. 25, 1875. Mr. RAMSEY, (rep.) of Minn., presented the credentials of Hon. Samuel J. R. McMillan, United States Senator from the State of Minnesota for the period of six years from March 4, 1875. Read

A COSTLY SCHEME OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS. Mr. WINDOM, (rep.) of Minn., from the Committee on Transportation Routes, called up the resolution submitted by him on the 2d inst. matructing the Committee on Com-merce to insert in the River and Harbor Appropriation bill such sums as in their judgment can e judicionaly and economically expended during the next fiscal year upon the thorough and systematic improvement of the Mississippi River. including the construction of an adequate channel River with the lakes by means of the Fox and Wisconsin improvement and the Hennepin Canal, the speedy completion of the improvements be-tween Lakes Superior and huran and Lakes Huren and Erie, the thorough and systematic Huron and Erie, the thorough and systematic supprovement of the Onio, and kina wha rivers and of the Tuturana, (deal.) of Onio, said this subject could not be considered in the morning nour. Arr. Futurana, (deal.) of Onio, said this subject could not be considered in the morning nour. Congress had already given mil lous of acres of land toward the improvement of the Fox and Wiscoosin rivers as well as maltens of money for the construction of a canal there when there was no canalyst. He was unwiding to emburk the government blindly in this way in an expenditure which no man cound see the end of. To thirds of the Senate never heard of plans for these improvements, its would not consent to changing the whole policy of the government and embarsing it in a scheme of internal improvements which would obtain the few many policy of the government and embarsing it in a scheme of internal improvements which would double the deut of the republic. If these improvements were to be made there should be some plan, and after this discussion and mature deliberation. There was not time in the lew remaining days of this session to act upon this matter.

Arr. Windom said the Senator from Onio (Ar. Thurman) evidently misunderstood the purport of this resolution, as he said it proposed to enter upon a system of improvements of which two-thirds of the Senator from Onio had heard of the constituents of the Senator from Onio had heard of the onion river he (Ar. Hurman) had not, the was surprised to hear that Senator say it was proposed to enter upon a scheme no understood. Here was not one of these improvements out what would pay the government a hundred fold for the amount invested in them. The resolution was not hable to the charge of extravasance, and when the Senator from Onio examined it he would find that it was not.

Ar. Iburman said he spoke of these schemes of tor from Ohio examined it he would find that it was not.

All Thurman said he spoke of these schemes of improvement and said two-thirds of the Senate did not know what the schemes were. He wanted some definite plan, and wanted to know now its constituents would be affected. He was opposed to appropriating money now for this purpose when Congress was asked to impose an additional tax of $.6.000,000 and to increase the tax upon the necessaries of lies. It had been said that $4,000,000 would be required to commence the improvements contemplated, and at the present time no such appropriations should be made. He, for one, and not care to take the responsibility of approving this thing. He knew that the men who opposed it were charged with being opposed to cheap transportation and against the agricultural interests of the land, but that had no terrors for him.

The morning hour baving expired Mr. Windom give notice that he would ask the Senate to consider and dispose of this resolution before the adjournment of the session.

The unfinished business, being the bill to provide for and regulate the counting of the votes for President and Vice President and the occasion of questions arising thereon, was land before the fants.

Mr. Pratt. (rep.) of Ind., with the consent of of questions arising thereon, was laid before the fenate.

Mr. Pratt. (rep.) of Ind., with the consent of his colleague (Mr. Morton), moved to pass over the unfinished business informally and proceed to the consideration of the bill to amend the act granting pensions to corrain solders and sallors of the war of 1812 and the widows of deceased solders, and to restore to the pension rolls those persons whose names were stricken therefrom in consequence of disloyalty.

Mr. EDMUNDS, frop.) of Vt., said he was opposed to his motion, and hoped the regular order of the Senate would not be broken into. If it was agreed to, he would feel him-elf relieved of all responsibility in regard to the Civil Rights bill.

Mr. Conkling, (rep.) of N. Y., said if this motion to postpone the unfluished business should be agreed to, he would receive for the suppose of the Senate would be the sufficient of the first postpone the unfluished business should be agreed to, he would not vote to take up the bill indicated by the Senator from Indiana (Mr. Pratti, but would vote to take up the Civil Rights bill.

Mr. Logan, (rep.) of Ill., sold he desired to have indicated by the Senator from Indiana (MY. Pratt), but would vote to take up the Civil Rights bill.

Air. Logan, (rep.) of Ill., sold he desired to have the bill to equalize bounties acted upon. He would press the Bounty bill in preference to anything else.

Mr. Morrill, (rep.) of Me., said the Senate should stand by the order of outsiness, otherwise nothing would be done. The republican majority was responsible for the fatthful adue, ence to the order of business, and the Senator from Indiana (Mr. Pratt) had no right to appeal to his colleague to allow him to take up a bill as a matter of courtesy. Questio so of too much importance were now pending to be put aside by courtesy.

The motion of Mr. Pratt to lay aside the unfinished business was rejected—reas 29, nays 24. The Senate proceeded with the consideration of the bill in regard to counting the vote for President and vice Fresident.

Mr. Thuman moved to amend so as to provide for the appointment of two tellers on the part of the Senate instead of one. Agreed to.

He also moved to amend so as to provide that the certaincates of the electoral votes small be opened presented and acted upon in the alphabetical order of the hames of the States beginning with the letter A. Agreed to.

He also authorited amendments striking from the first and third sections the clauses providing that any other questions pertinent to the object for which the Rouses are assembled may be submitted and determined in like manner as questions which the Rouses are assembled may be submitted and determined in like manner as questions which the gravity discussion ensued upon the general provisions of the bill, which was participated in by Messirs. Buyard, (dem.) of Del., Thurman, Edmunds, and Morton, rep.) of Ilat.

On motion of all, Which, trep.) of Iowa, the second section in regard to duplicate returns from a vatar was amended so as to read—"That returns only from such State shall be counted which the two nouses, acting separately, shall each decide to be the true and vaind returns.

bil should be finished to night.

Mr. EDMINES said after this oill should be disposed of he proposed to move to take up the Civil Rights bill, and, speaking for himself, though he noped with the assent of the majority, he proposed that those opposed to the bill should have all the time they whatbut to discuss it till five o'clock tomorrow a ternoon. Then, if there were amendments, there could be a short discussion under the minute rule, and then the Senator having charge of the bill should have half an hour to close the decasts.

THURMAN said he could not consent to any Mr. IBURMAN said he could not consent to any such agreement. He did not wish to speak on tag Civil Rights bill, as he had twice speak on tag Civil Rights bill, as he had twice speak elaborately on the souject and would now leave it to counting the fresidential vote should be finished a majority of the Senas would take up the Steamboat bill, otherwise it would be lost. If it had been decided elsewhere that the Civil Rights bill ahould override everything else, then he had no hope for the Steamboat bill. He was not willing to enter into any agreement as the one proposed. Mr. EDMUNDS and there was nothing left but for the senate to go on and do the business it had to do.

Mr. Morron withdrew his motion for a recess.

ONJECTIONS TO THE BILL.

The question being on the third reading of the sill, Mr. Eaton, idem.) or Conn., said the bill had yet faw friends acre. Why was it that some Sentior's voice was not raised for it? Had it come and the sill could be access in the last hours.

of a session by mere force of numbers without debate? He havored the postponement of the whole question till the next session of Congress. He thought there was partrotism enough in both perticus to irame a proper rule on this subject. He did not see he necessity for a public act to regulate the count, which could not be repeated without the consent of the Schafe, the House of Remeasures and the Freshent of the United States. He moved the indefinite postponement of the bill. Rejected—jeas 14, pays 31.—Messrs, Carlenier, (rep.) of Wis., and Conking voting with the democrats in the affirmative.

Mr. Conking said the twenty-second joint rule as it stood, in his judgment, was objectionable, it was a dangerous provision; but it was proposed to obviate it by the adoption of a measure more likely to cause trouble in the consting of the Presidential vote. He would, therefore, vote against the bill.

Mr. Moaton said he supposed the Senate agreed that his twenty-second joint rule ought to be repeated. The bill before the cenare was not a party measure. He was surprised that his democratic friends voted solinity in layor of the indefinite postponement of the bill. If he was 1-p sed to look for party motives he might flud them in the fact that the next house of Representatives would be democratic, and under the rule, as it now existed, the election could be thrown in the House, if that body occated to the count of the votes from States, and thus the election of a democratic President could be secured. He was not disposed to timix this, however, but believed it was a question which rose above party leeling.

Mr. Edmunds said he would vote against the bill. He favored the repeal of the twenty-second joint rule, but thought the hill now be ore the Senate was just as bad, and set up a broader ground for collision and difficulty.

Mr. Strague, (100.) of R. L., said he did not approve of the passage of this bill, which must be approved by the President and could not be repealed without his consent. There was too much bill before Mf. STEWAET, (rep.) of Nev., said he thought the bill before the Seducte was worse than the twenty-second rule.

There was no chance for a result to be reached by this bill, as it allowed recesses and decate, while the twenty-second rule forbids debate, and under it a result must be reached.

Fending discussion, Mr. Wist, (rep.) of La., from the Committee on Transportation Routys, submitted as an amendment to the River and Harbor Appropriation bull the House bill for the improvement of the mouth of the Mississippiniver, known as the Eads bill, with amendments, which reduces the Eads bill, with amendments, which reduces the South Pass for improvement instead of the Southwest Pass, provides that the work shall be under the superintendence of the Secretary of War and that the depth of the channel contracted for small he required to be maintained permanently in advance of payment. Ordered to be printed.

The PRESIDENTAL BILL PASSED.

The discussion upon the bull to regulate the counting of votes for President and Vice President was continued at some length by Messes. Edmunds, Fourman, Morton, Logan, Sewart, Sherman, (rep.) of Onto, and others, and at half-past eight o'chock P. M. It was read a third time and passed—year 28, mays 20—as 100008;—

Mr. EDMUNDS moved to take up the Civil Rights bill. Agreed to.

Mr. EDMUNDS said the bill now being before the Senate, he would submit a proposition, that the Senate sojourn to-night when it suited the convenience of the opponents of the bill, that general decate should go on till two o'clock on Saturday afternous, and then the amendments offered to be desposed or under the five-minute rule, the Senator in charge of the oil then to have a half nour to close the decate, and that no other measure should be interposed outside of the morning hour.

Mr. Bayard inquired if the time mentioned for debate was to be given to those who opposed the bill. He did not want the minority cut of by an adjournment, but if they felt in duly bound to discuss the measure and nave a night session tomorrow night the majority would not prevent it. Mr. Edutions replied that was his understanding, provided no vote should be taken before saurday. The bill had already seen thoroughly discussed, and he did not suppose the majority desired to discuss it again.

No objection being made to the proposition of Mr. Edmunds, it was agreed that the vote should be taken on Saturday. be taken on Saturday.

Mr. Sherman gave notice that he would call up the Tax and Tarrif oil on Saturday, after the Civil Bignis bil was disposed of.

The senate, at a quarter to nine o'clock P. M., adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WASHINGTON, Peb. 25, 1875, peared to be no nearer to a way out of the difficuity than it was at minnight. The all-night session was consumed in going round and round in the vicious circle into which the proceedings tended when they started.
When the question whether the House chall now consider the bill (the Caucus Force bill) came to be voted on, the democrats retrained trota voting; and, as the lepublicans could not keep in the hall a full majority from their own rathe, the vote would show the absence of a quorum, and then there would be a call of the House, with all the tedious processes connected with it. When these were all gotten through with, and marther proceedings under the call were dispensed with, the House would come back to the real question of consideration of the bill, and again the democrats would reirain from voting; and again the democrats would reirain from voting; and again, in the apparent absence of a quorum, another call of the House would be entered on, and so on back to the point of beginning. With all this, and not withstanding the disputs of the leaders of the flower of the flower.

In this, and not withstanding the disputs of the leaders of the flower of the thouse.

Mr. Butler, (rep.) of Mass., who was grand marshal of the republican array, partook of supper at its desk penefully, while the roll was being chied, Mr. Cessna, (rep.) of Pa., acting in the meantime as flatter's calof and, railying those who were inclined to waver and strengthening the spirit of those who seouled the idea of yielding. The opposition force were skilledly and quietly led by Mr. Raudall, (dem.) of Pa., who was ready on all occasions to take advantage of every weak point in the parliamentary armor of his antagonist, and he was ably seconded by Mr. Speer, (dem.), of Pa.

The Speaker occupied the chair throughout the session, deciding promptly and with his usual clearness of reasoning tae many difficult points constantly arising, his decisions generally giving more satisfaction to the democratic than to the republican side of the House.

Finally, at hell-past one, all pending motions having been voted on, and the last vote snowing the presence of left republican members—more than a working majority—Mr. Coburn, (rep.) of Ind., rose and said that he desired to proceed with the discussion of the bill.

Mr. Henceford, (dem.) of W. A., moved a concurrent resolution of sujournment to the list of March, but the Speaker refused to entertain it, and refused to entertain an appeal against its exclusion.

Mr. Godern aga of a quorum, and then there would be a call of the House, with all the tedious processes connec ed bill.

Mr. Eldredge moved to reconsider the last vote, and Mr. Costum moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table.

The latter motion was agreed to.

Mr. Costum again called for the reading of the bill.

Mr. Nimlack, (dem.) of Ind., made the point of order that the ninth section of the bill provided for the creation of new offices, and must, therefore, receive its first consideration in Committee of the Whole.

The Spraker replied that he did not know smyof the Whole.

The SPEAKER replied that he did not know shything about the pinth section, as the bill had not been read, and he directed the Clerk to proceed

The SPEAKER replied that he did not know anything about the ninth section, as the bill had not been read, and he directed the Cierk to proceed with the reading.

The Cierk then, at three o'clock, commenced to read the bill, which is entitled, "A bill to provide against the invasion of States, to prevent the aubversion of their authority and to maintain the security of elections."

The bill having been read, Mr. Niblack renewed his point of order.

The Speaker, naving read the section and the role bearing on the subject, overruied the point of order, the bill specincally providing in section if that no officer whose office is created by the act shall receive any compensation whatever from the United States.

Mr. Niblack appealed from the decision of the Chair, arguing that any bill creating an office was necessarily a charge to the Treasury.

Mr. Garristo, (rep.) of Onio, made the point that the appeal was a dilatory motion and should not be entertained.

The Speaker said that was a very delicate point for him to rule upon. Although he did not possibly see that there could be any difference of opinion on the point decided, still it was not for him to determine absolutely that the appeal was not taken in good faith.

Mr. Concer, (rep.) of Mich., moved to lay the appeal on the table, which was carried—year 142, nays 56.

Mr. Conunt rose at four gloces to ones the debate, but remarked that the time which had been occupied in getting ready had been so long and every one was so worn out that it seemed almost impossible to go on with the work necessary for the till this evening. He would yield to have some amendments offered.

Amendments were thereupon offered or suggested by Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts; Mr. Cannon, (een,) of lik.; Mr. Hawley, (rep.) of lik, and Mr. E. R. Hoar (rep.) of Mass. The amendment of the latter was to strike out the first second and fourth sections, and of Mr. Cannon to strike out the thretenth section.

Mr. Conges, of Michigan, then moved an adjournment, stating that he did so at the request of many members who had been sitting in the ball for upward of techy-nine hours without seep and without regular meals.

Mr. Garpield reminded the House that there were but four working days of the session left, and if the discussion on this bull were to go on to-morrow without immitation as to time the vote would procably hot be reached below Saurday, as he old not see that it would be ossible to touch an appropriation bill or any other measure be ore alonday.

Mr. Albergur, (rep.) of Pa., proposed an evening session for the decate, but very decided objection was made on the democratic side.

The House then, at a quarter past four P. M., adjourned.

THE FOG AND THE RIVERS.

For the past forty-eight hours this city has been enveloped in a log of unusual density, thereby causing great inconvenience to the travelling pubhe and no little amount of loss to those engaged in maritime pursuits.

About four P. M. the rain made an ineffectual attempt to wash away the show, ice and filth waich have so long remained upon the streets. In addition to the rain of yesterday, the mild, almost tropical, weather of the past two days has also tended to forward the disap-pearance of the lee and snow, although the melting of the ice upon the streets rendered it extremely unpleasant for those who were compelled to induige in pedestrianism. On the west side of the city especially was this state of affairs noticeable, many parts of Fulton, Vesey, Barclay, West and Greenwich streets being almost impass-able. Broadway, Chatham street and the Bowery were in a sorry physit, being covered with thick coating of silmy and suppery mud, and the crossings were in a most flithy condition, pools of thick coating of simy and slippery mud, and the crossings were in a most flithy condition, pools of conglimerated water and mad having collected at amost every crossing in miniature ponds and haves of several indices in depth, remiering it necessary for those attempting to cross from one corner to the other to indulate in acrobatic leats in order to gain the opposite side successfully.

The streets mong the river front were, if possible, in a still more deplorable condition, and vehicles as well as p destrians found travel attended with nucle difficulty. On the East River lerry bout travel was considerably delayed throughout the emire day.

About five P. M., owing to the increasing density of the log, lewer trips were made and only at very irregular intervais. On the ruiton ferry but three boars were kept running, and in order to avoid collisions one boat was obliged to wair in the slip until the other should arrive. There we can collisions reported on the half sliver, so far as could be as ertained. At the sugar dock, however, in williansourg, the burge flercules, belonging to the starm line and loaded with 2,400 burrels of sight, such about eleven o'clock A. M. The only cause which could be assigned was that the barge must have been injured during the high by the inmense amount of lee which floated down the East River ir in the Sound.

The North River lerry boats found more difficulty in making their trips than did those on the East River. In many instances the Jersey City. Hooken and Communipaw lerry boats missed their slips and were compelled to put into others, thereby causing most serious delay.

The erryooat Philindeld, of the Communipaw Ferry Company, met with a serious accident, about dine A. M., as she was endeavoring to reach the erry slip on the Jersey Side. Several ladies, overcome by the exchangent, fainted, and about hine A. M., as she was endeavoring to reach the ierry sup on the Jersey side. Several ladies, overcome by the excitement, lainted, and half a doien timid male passengers, fearing an explosion or some other awin calamity, jumped overboard and swam to the dock. Their condition on reaching shore was extremely pittable. The passengers were limited darly landed and the Plainfield hauled off for realits.

dately landed and the Plainfield hauled off for replies.

The several ferries on the North River side adopted the same plain as was car led out by the East kilver lerry companies, and allowed but one boat to cross at a time. About five P. M. the log had increased considerably, so that the lerry-masters almost entirely despaired of being able to make any more trips in safety.

The Harrem boats, owing to the large number of lerry beats which cross their line of travel, were competed to proceed as cauthously as possible, and made but lew trips during the day.

The Sound steamers did not take their departure at the usual time, as It was decided not only unadvisable out also as matter of impracticability for them to attempt the passage of the sound.

The Staten Island lerries were compelled to cease running, as the bay, in addition to the log, was covered with ice.

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE CAMPAIGN.

THE POLITICIANS THAWED OUT AND POLITICAL NAVIGATION COMMENCED.

CONCORD, Feb. 25, 1875. The softening weather of the past lew days has thawed our the New Hampshire politicians, and during the intervening fortnight between now and election there will be torrents of republican and democratic eloquence pouring down the nills and through the valleys of the old Granite State. With the mercury down among the thirties and forties, politics, as well as more important indus-tries, were neglected. The genial thaw has come, however, and the whole surface of the country from Coos to Merrimack, is submerged with the inevitable ocean of politics. There is something singular about these New Hampshire campaigns singular about these New Hampshire campaigns when neither residents or visitors can account for. Invariably, almost, both sides caim a victory up to the evening of election day. The partice have been pretty evenly balanced for the last eight or ten years, but never at any time base the prosspects of either party been alternately more promising and duplous than they are at this time. The lact that The Democrats are alternaty in fower may or may not be an advantage to them. Aside eight or ten years, but never at any time bave the prospects on etheir party been alternately more promising and dublous than they are at this time. The leaf that the latt that the latt that they are at this time. The pemocrar's are a advantage to them. Aside from what the railroad interests supply there is not much local patronage, and hence the spoils of the State offices are not vast. Probably more than in any other State the elections in New Hampsaire indicate the popular feeling on the broad national issues of the country. On this account the election how approaching—the very first of the year—will be regarded as significant of the political sentiments of the country. If it is a reguliciant triump it cannot be regarded otherwise than an emphatic indorsement of Grant and the administration. The result of a democratio triumph, unless it is more sweeping than the one of a year ago, will also be justly liable to the same interpretation. To secure a righteous rebuse of Grant and this policy—one that will be effective in its indicance upon the country at large—the democrats must make a clead sweep of everything by an overwhelming majority. This is precisely what they claim they are going to do, and the republicans are also just as boastiff or what they are going to accombish.

The Campaign of the present week, and from this moment until the eve of election it will be prosecuted most vigorously on both sides. The republicans are making the most sir upon the public surface, and eloffethe day of conflict their party sentiments will have been eloquently processimed in every section of the State. With the exception of Fred Doullass the speakers on the republicans and democratic announced are only of local renown. The same is also true of the democration, the work of the republicans and democratic with the but of his fortune he accumulated years go in the manufacture of a patent sar feetorium to supernatures. ## STATEN ISLAND.

Mr. H. Guion Clauson, Collector of Southfield, is now sitting in that town to receive the State and County taxes.
At the sitting of the County Court at Richmond yesterday, Judge Metcalle presiding, only one The dense fog of yesterday on the rivers and bay about Staten Island made navigation by ferry-boats very difficult, although those of the Railway Ferry Company succeeded in making most of their running trips. The fog and rain of the past forty-eight nours has greatly aided in breaking up the ice olockade, the Kills now being clear of ice, and that in the Sound, on the west side of the island, being nearly broken up, so that the lerry-boat haid of Perth resumed her regular trips yesterday between Tottenville and Perth Amboy on the arrival of trains from the ferry at Chitton landing.

NEW JERSEY.

A gang of burglars are on the rampage in the Bergen district of Jersey City. Yesterday morning they attacked Branton's store, on Communi-paw avenue. The proprietor of the store hearing the noise gave as alarm and the thieves fied.

Every day this week has had a record of railroad accidents. Yesterday morning James Kinney, winie engaged in picking up coal on the Erie track, near Penn Horn Creek, was struck by the locomotive of a Western boung train. He was taken to the charity Hospital, but there is no hope of his recovery. Kinney is lorty-five years of age. Both legs were severed from his body.

Colonel Thomas P. White, was was released from the National Insane Asylum for soldiers at Washington eighteen months ago, and who was washington eighteen months ago, and who was again arrested for innay and lodged in the Hudson county jail a lew days ago, has become so desperate that his keepers can hardly restrain him, the deputy jailor, he occupied himself yesterday in making herce tireats against the under jailor, who was placed in charge of white's cell. He is the account soldier arrested during the week for insanity arising from wounds received during the war.

Ten of the fighting freeholders of Hudson county held a caucus yesterday atternoon, and passed a resolution opposing Senator Abbett's bill, because resolution opposing Senator Absetvs bill, because it reduces the number to one from each district, and exacts wonds of $10,000 for good behavior. A resolution was also passed calling on the Legislative Committee of the Board to precede to Trenton, and nave the bill defeated in the name of the Board, but the committee positively declined. Mr. Roche, one of the sommittee, declared openly that dining and wining in Trenton at the expense of the taxpayers in this case would be nothing less than a barefaced fraud.

The war against the horse railroad monopolies is becoming as fierce as that against Tom Scott two years ago in the Legislature. The residents of Hudson county have petitioned the Legislature through their representatives for a reduction of fares, and two bills to effect this object are now pending. Mr. McDonneil's bill reduces the lare on the Jersey City and Bergen line to five cents. The monopoly, on the other hand, meet this through assemblyman McGill by a bill proposing to virtually increase the tariff. Mr. Rabe's bill to establish a new railroad from the Hoboken Perry to the northern limit of the county, on the basis of low lares, is being fought by the North Hudson County Railway Camman. two years ago in the Legislature. The residents

KILLED BY A MADMAN.

A LUNATIC BUSBAND BRAINS HIS WIFE WITH AN AXH-A SECRET WELL ERPT.

ANSONIA, Conn., Feb. 25, 1875, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, an aged lady, died under suspicious circumstances, on Monday, 22d, at her house in this piace. Her illness was short, and had a large cut in the head near the right temple. So serious was toe cut that it led to inquiry, but the suffering woman and those attending her declared that it was the result of a fall on the ice. Mrs. Murphy's sudden death, as stated, excited suspicion that the story of a fall was inconsistent, and Dr. Johnson, the family physician, was so convinced in his own si ted on having a jury of inquest summoned. This was done yesterday, and their investigations justified the surmise. At the inquest two daughters of deceased testified that their lather had been crazy for a month past, but as he had not been violent in his insane moments they had not made the fact public, as they dishked to have him taken to an insane retreat. Returnthey found their mother on the floor bleeding from a terrible wound in the head. They asked the a terrible wound in the head. They asked the cause, and were told that their father had hit her with the axe. She had asked him to get a pail of water, and he angrily refused, saying his outsites was not that of a drawer of water. An altercation followed, in which the husband, with the fury of a madman, serzed an axe and with it of a madman, seized an axe and with it DEALT A TERRIBLE BLOW, felling the wife to the floor. He then rushed from the house, out attempted no further injury. The daughters had lold a similar story to Dr. Johnson previous to the inquest, and in view of that fact discredited the story of a fail on the ice. Dr. Pinney, of Birmingbam, who had also attended the woman during her illness, was of opinion that a discassed liver had accelerated death. To test this A POSI-MOKIEM EXAMINATION was determined on. Meantime the funeral ceremomes took place, and as the body was being carried from the house for interment a numer of doctors arrived. The linneral was delayed, the body taken back into the house, and a scene of the most took place. Friends leit outraged at the conduct of the doctors, whose act seemed an insult to common numantly. The liver of deceased was found in a periectly healthy condition, as was also the other organs of vitality. They decided that the cut in the head could not have been caused by a fill. The facts were communicated to the july of inquest, and a verdict in accordance therewith was rendered. Mr. Murphy is a man aged seventy years. He is now held in close confinement in its list own house, lest he should in his insane moments inflict injury on others. It is difficult to keep him quiet, as his insanity gives him unnatural strength. The opinion expressed by those who know the man is mat he should have been placed in a retreat months age. Such action would have prolonged the life of an uncortunate wite. The case is now in the hands of the State Attorney.

THE CUNARD STEAMSHIP ROBBERS.

Wil iam Powers and William Paxton, who were arrested on a Conard steamer at Jersey Ch y on susp cion of being confidence men, were brought up for further examination yesterday before Jus tice Farmer. A check for $900 and a pawn ticket for a gold watch were found on the person of one of them. Powers was recognized as a notorious New York thiel named Patrick McDonald. He ad-mitted that he served a term in Sing Sing for a mitted that he served a term in Sing Sing for a robbery in New York. His defence was remarkably "thin." The check, he said, was given him by a bootblack on a ferryboat and the pawn ticket he received from "a riend." He added that he had been an agent for the sale of tickets for several seamship companies and that he embezgled hundreds of dollars while in this business. Both were examined separately. When asked what he knew about his companion in froable Powers said that they had been "chums" for seven or eight months in and around New York. When Paxton was called up he denied this point blank and said he had known Powers only three weeks. As to the object of his visit to the steamer he had nothing to say. Both were then remanded for further examination. This is the second contingent of steamship thieves arrested in Jersey City within ten days.

JAIL BIRDS AND THE JERSEY FOG.

Yesterday morning the heavy fog which rested on Jersey soil did good service for Charles Dougherty and Michael Morris, convicts in the Essex County Penitentiary, located in Caldwell township, some eight or ten miles from Newark. It appears they, with others, had been employed painting the inside of the institution and had to go outside frequently for paint. Usually a keeper went in charge of them. Yesterday morning a new man, one McDermott, let them out, locked the door after them and paid no beed to where they went, beeing their opportunity, they took to their heels and fied into the woods. The alarm was soon given, but in the dense log they managed to baffle their pursuers, and at has accounts had not been neard from. McDermott will, doubtless, hear from his superiors for his gross negligence.
